

Communicating

with deaf children

Every deaf child has different levels of deafness and ways of communicating.

Peppa's brother George has moderate hearing loss in one ear. These tips help him to communicate.

Find out how they like to communicate.

Speak one at a time and make the topic clear.

Try waving or tapping their shoulder lightly to get their attention.

Make sure your face is visible and in the light. Speak clearly and don't shout.

Use gestures and facial expressions and don't give up!

Try to reduce background noise.
